Re: Flight Manual/Assignment Orders

O.K. Junior Jock, listen up:

I know...I know...those hot-shots at TopRat got you all wound up thinkin' you're the best Sewer Jockey to ever Shoot the Tubes. Well, let me tell you somethin' Mr. Big-head, down here we got no fancy-pants high-tech simulators where you can hit the wall over and over and just say, "Ooops, sorry teacher...Can I try again?" Down here it's life and death pal! You I don't care about...you can be replaced. But if you so much as put a single scratch on one of my Sewer Sharks, I'll...I'll...well, you'll just have to wait and see what I do. But believe you me buddy boy, it won't be good. So get out there and clean up my sewers. I'm gettin' reports of vermin runnin' all up and down my sewers like they owned 'em. HEY, I OWN THEM SEWERS! And if I didn't have pressing administrative duties up here in Solar City, I'd be down there blastin' some ratigators myself. But I'm stuck with hotdogs like you tryin' to do a man's job.

Guess what? I'm gonna make it worth your while to get them sewers clean. Blast me a million pounds of sewer vermin and you'll earn your way to Solar City. Rumor has it Super Jock Falco's been seen up here sippin' banana fizzies with her toes in the sand. Come and rescue her, Pal. Dream on, Dogbreath - No Sewer Jock's ever made it this far, anyway.

But I betcha you think you're gonna be the first...ya!...and I got a T-Bone and a cold one just waitin' for you. Not!

Commisioner Stenchler

Meet Your Crew, Dogmeat!

Mission Assignment Date:

Immediate! Tour length undetermined.

Ghost (see glossary):

Ghost will be your co-pilot. Listen to him, Dogmeat. He's an Ace Jock with an attitude and a service rating of 98.9.

Your Call Sign:

To be assigned by Back-Seat, based on performance.

Hole Hawg:

Here's your ride! Boy, ain't she a beaut.

The Hole Hawg is a customized Exterminator Class Sewer Shark equipped with hydrogen flares and a Recon Probe Com Link. As you make your way further through the tubes, you can pick up a pair of Thompson super chargers on the thruster coils and "Sweet little 16," a rambunctious power blaster with a hearty magazine and a pendant for blastin' sewer scum.

Catfish:

Catfish will be your guide.

He will be your eyes and ears on this mission. He's the best when it comes to target location and navigational assistance. Lose him and they'll be using Handiwipes to clean you off the walls.

In the Cockpit

Heads-Up Screen

1 Tube Jump Indicator

As you approach any Tube intersection, the indicator arrows will light up to let you know the directions of upcoming Tubes, and the locations of available Tube Jumps. Even though a turn is available, it may not be the best way to go. Watch out!

The arrows represent the clockface navigational directions you will hear from Catfish: "Twelve O'clock (UP), Three (RIGHT), Six (DOWN), and Niner (LEFT)."

2 Display

This is your view of approaching tunnels and targets.

3 Targeting Crosshair

The crosshair aims your Gatling Gun at the various targets.

4 Hydrogen Indicator

This indicator tracks the hydrogen levels outside the Hole Hawg. As you travel deeper into the sewers, the hydrogen level will reach critical stage and the indicator will go red. When it does, you better fire a flare to explode the hydrogen in the Tubes ahead of you.

5 Energy Indicator

This number shows the Hole Hawg's remaining energy. Recharge as often as possible. If you run out of energy, you become rat food.

6 Com Line Signal

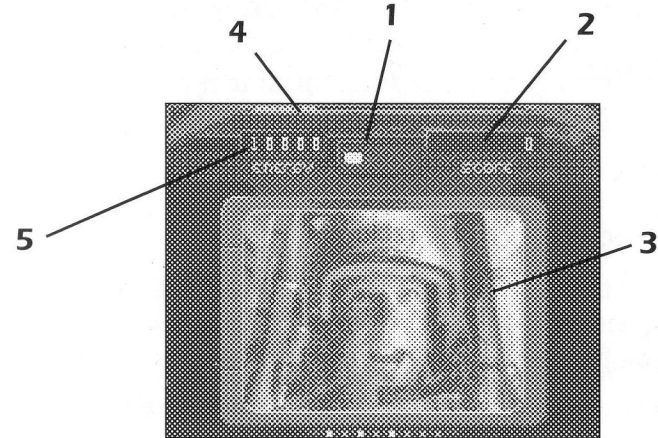

This light will flash whenever there is an incoming message on the com line. At this point, you will automatically switch to the Monitor Screen to view the incoming message.

7 Score Indicator

The number of pounds of sewer vermin you've killed is tracked here.

Monitor Screen

To receive an incoming com message, your view will automatically switch to the Monitor Screen, located on the Hole Hawg's dash, just below the Heads-Up Screen.

1 Com Line Signal

This light will flash when the incoming message is almost complete. After the com transmission, your view will automatically switch back to the Up Screen.

2 Score Indicator

3 Viewing Screen

You will view the incoming transmission on this Viewing Screen.

4 Hydrogen Indicator

5 Energy Indicator

Shoot the Tubes, Dogmeat!

Blast that Vermin

To eradicate the various sewer-dwellers you'll encounter, aim the Targeting Crosshair over the little puke and fire.

CONTROLS

A BUTTON to fire your Gatling Gun.

Make the Jump

Catfish is running recon for you ahead of the Hole Hawg. He's locating potential targets for you, and opening the sewer system's flow-hatch doors in your path.

At your rate of speed, you don't want to ride into a Tube where the hatch-door is closed—or it will be the last Tube you ride.

Catfish will signal you on the com line and give you navigational directions to target locations. Catfish will let you know the path where he's opened the hatch doors by calling out clockface directions—Twelve, Three, Six and Niner.

His directions are the Tube Jumps you need to make to follow him.

Catfish's directions will require you to make three consecutive Tube Jumps.

For example, he'll call out: "Three, Niner, Six." You must then make Tube Jumps at the three intersections immediately following his directions—first RIGHT (Three), then LEFT (Niner), then DOWN (Six).

If you do not follow Catfish's directions exactly, he'll try his best to find you and open hatch doors ahead of your new course—but he won't always make it...and neither will you.

A flashing green light means you have an option to jump to another tube—you don't have to take it. To make a Tube Jump, you'll need to engage the Hole Hawg's Steering Controls, then Steer into the Tube you want. If, following a jump, the lights change to yellow, your jump is locked. If that light turns red, you've made the wrong turn or missed the correct turn.

CONTROLS

B BUTTON to activate the Steering Controls

D PAD UP, DOWN, LEFT and RIGHT to steer the Hole Hawg in the direction of the Tube Jump you need to make.

For Example, if Catfish calls out, "Twelve, Niner, Niner," your controls would be:

B BUTTON to activate Steering, then D PAD UP when you see the UP Arrow on the Tube Jump Indicator flashing; then

B BUTTON to activate Steering, then D PAD LEFT when you see the LEFT Arrow on the Tube Jump Indicator flashing; then

B BUTTON to activate Steering, then D PAD LEFT when you see the LEFT Arrow on the Tube Jump Indicator flashing. You know a turn is locked-in when the arrow turns yellow.

Get Charged Up!

Throughout the sewers there are Recharge Stations to power up the Hole Hawg.

Each Recharge Station has two entrances: LEFT and RIGHT.

Beware: only one of the two paths is active at any time.

You won't know which one is active until you approach it and check out the Active Charge Lights at the top of the tunnel.

The two lights on the Tube ceiling represent the two entrances to the Recharge Station. One will be green, the other red. The green light shows which path into the Recharge Station is open: LEFT or RIGHT.

Just because the light is red does not mean you can't go through that path—it simply means you won't recharge the Hole Hawg.

What The @$%&*! Is That?

After decades of ever-increasing toxins filtering through the sewer system, you see some pretty disgusting freaks of nature down in the Tubes.

Bats

Giant bats are everywhere in the sewer. They are a nuisance, but bring no harm to you if you miss them.

Average Weight:

200 lbs.

Ratigators

Ratigators are a snarling mutation of rats and sewer alligators. Fortunately, the Ratigator will not inflict damage on the Hole Hawg if you miss it.

Average Weight:

500 lbs.

Scorpions

Watch out for these guys. Gigantic Scorpions are far more aggressive than Bats or Ratigators. If you don't shoot them they will attack the Hole Hawg and drain your energy. Remember: To kill a Scorpion, you must hit it twice.

Average Weight:
2,000 lbs.

Moles

Heaven help you! Before Sewer Jockeys, the department used these automated Moles to keep the sewers clean. But they've gone renegade and will attack Sewer Sharks without warning. Moles have diamond-edged Skil saws and pointed battering rams for hands. If you encounter a Mole, it's him or you — only one vehicle will come out of the Tube in one piece. Remember: Hit a Mole once and you're in trouble.

Average Weight:
20,000 lbs.

Zerks

Zerks are dangerous strains of fireflies that live deep in the sewers and feed on hydrogen and power from Recharge Stations. Zerks have evolved into high-density energy forces and have been known to suck out the brains of any Sewer Jockey who crosses their path. To put it simply: Blast 'em or get an instant full-cranial lobotomy.

Average Weight:
50,000 lbs.

"The Crazy Looking Thing"

Recent reports from long-lost deep-dwelling Sewer Jocks mention a "Crazy Looking Thing" hanging out in the far reaches of the Tube. Its existence has yet to be confirmed, but the word is this "Thing" apparently showed no hostile signs—and they say it's been known to guide Jocks through the tunnels. He may be an ally, but until you can determine its nature and intentions, approach with caution.

Average Weight:
Unknown at this time

A Message From Your Old Mentor

In case you've forgotten all your training, rookie, here's a refresher course on TopRat's Top 10 Sewer Jockey rules:

1. Always listen to your Back-Seat.
2. Don't lose track of jump coordinates that Catfish gives you.
3. Keep track of your fellow Sewer Jocks.
4. Learn locations of Recharge Stations. They always change.
5. Feed your Sewer Shark as often as you can at Recharge Stations.
6. When facing two or more targets, always shoot the most dangerous one first.
7. Watch your hydrogen gauge and shoot your flare as soon as possible.
8. Don't get cocky.
9. Don't trust Stenchler.
10. When it gets really hairy down there, just picture yourself sitting on the beach in Solar City.
